

Annual PlacerGROWN Food and Farm Conference

Saturday, January 30, 2010
8:00 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.
Lincoln High School, 790 J St., Lincoln, CA.

Each year, PlacerGROWN and the UC Davis Extension co-host an annual Farm Conference – an exciting day of food, fun and workshops on farming, agriculture and local sustainability!

The keynote speaker this year was Small Farm Journal author and publisher Lynn Miller. Lynn spoke at last year's 2008 Small Farm Progress Days in Auburn. He is an ardent supporter of small farms and definitely made us think! Lynn has been heavily involved in the establishment of a Small Farm Conservancy. The conservancy's proposed programs are in sync with many of the ongoing efforts here in Placer and Nevada Counties.

The Conference typically features 25-30 workshops, with lunch prepared by the Lincoln Future Farmers of America (FFA), and a trade show. The opportunity to meet and network with other farmers/ranchers and related agricultural organizations is as valuable as the educational content!
